PROOF OF ELIGIBILITY TO WORK IN THE UK TO SATISFY HOME OFFICE UK BORDER & IMMIGRATION REGULATIONS

If you are short listed, then on the day that you are invited in for your interview, you will be asked to provide documents showing proof of eligibility to work in the UK.

We will take a photocopy of these documents. The reasons for this are stated below:

The Immigration Asylum and Nationality Act 2006 require employers to carry out some document checks on each person they intend to employ.

Employers' responsibilities for avoiding illegal employment

It is a criminal offence to knowingly employ a person who requires but lacks immigration permission, to be in that role. There is a maximum prison sentence of two years and an unlimited fine for employers caught in breach. In practice, this is aimed at employers who deliberately flout the law in order to exploit vulnerable employees and undercut legal competitors. The merely careless or negligent will, generally, be dealt with through a civil penalty. Employers who hire illegal immigrants can be fined £10,000 per illegal worker. Employers have to check and copy specific original documentation to obtain a 'statutory excuse' in respect of any new employees who may turn out not to have permission to work. The government has issued guidance which sets out when checks must be made, what employers need to do including tips on how to check authenticity and what to photocopy and retain (see useful contacts section below). Checks must be completed before employment begins, but re-checking is also required for employees with time-limited immigration status. Employers, who try to avoid prosecution by refusing to consider for a job anyone who looks or sounds foreign, are likely to be in contravention of the Race Relations Act 1976.

Any checks that are made should be done in a non-discriminatory manner in accordance with the government guidance. The guidance recommends that all job applicants should be treated in the same way.

Steps 1 – 3 below describe the document checking process for every new prospective employee.

Step 1

In order to comply with the Act, all candidates/applicants should be asked to bring the following to their interview:

one of the original documents, or two of the original documents in the specified combinations given in List A; one of the original documents alone, or two of the original documents in the specified combinations given in List B.

OR

List A - If the individual is not subject to immigration control, or has no restrictions on their stay in the UK, they should be able to produce a document(s) from List A. Documents include passports or national identity cards saying that the holder is a British Citizen, a Commonwealth Citizen with a right of abode or national of the EEA or Switzerland. The checks must be made before they are employed and normally there is no need to undergo a further check.

List B - If the leave to enter or remain in the UK granted to an individual is time-limited or restricted, the document(s) provided will be specified in List B. List B contains documents that indicate the holder has restrictions on his or her entitlement to be in the UK and include a passport or travel document which is stamped with a work permit. The employer must obtain sufficient documentation e.g. a birth certificate combined with a document listing a UK national insurance number or a work permit and a passport to fully establish ability to work.

Anyone who is employed on the basis of documents from List B will need to have their documents repeatedly checked every 12 months or within an appropriate time period according to the visa expiry dates, to ensure the employee continues to have leave to enter or remain in the UK.

On each occasion that a follow-up document check is undertaken, the steps outlined below should be repeated in full within the given time period and the date of each subsequent check recorded.

Step 2

You are required to check the validity of the documents and be satisfied that the prospective, or existing employee, is the rightful holder of the documents they present.

- checking any photographs contained in the documentation (if available) – to ensure consistent with the appearance of the individual;
- check the dates of birth listed, where available, to ensure that these are consistent across documents and that you are satisfied that these correspond with the appearance of the individual;
- check that the expiry dates of any limited leave to enter or remain in the UK have not passed;
- check any UK Government endorsements (stamps, visas, etc.) to see if the individual is able to do the type of work on offer; be satisfied that the documents are genuine, have not been tampered with, and belong to the holder;
- if the prospective or current employee provides two documents which have different names, ask them for a further document to explain the reason for this. The further document could be a marriage certificate, a divorce decree, a deed poll document or statutory declaration.

Step 3

Make sure you keep a photocopy of the documents shown to you.

A black and white copy of the relevant page or pages of the document, in a format which cannot be subsequently altered, needs to be made (for example, a photocopy or scan or PDF file). In the case of a passport or other travel document, the following parts must be photocopied or scanned:

- a copy should be taken of the document's front cover and any page containing the holder's personal details. In particular, any page that provides details of nationality, his or her photograph, date of birth, signature, date of expiry or biometric details;
- any page containing UK Government endorsements, noting the date of expiry and any relevant UK immigration endorsement which allows the prospective or current employee to do the type of work on offer.
- other documents should be copied in their entirety.
- All copies should be dated and signed to confirm that the original has been seen.

A record should be kept of every document copied and these should be stored with the individual's personnel file for the duration of the individual's employment.

If you have any doubt about the authenticity or sufficiency to establish an applicant's right to work you should contact Employer Checking Service via the Border and Immigration Agency's Employer's Helpline on 0845 010 6677 or via email employerchecking@ukbe.gsi.gov.uk

The legal framework

Those entitled to work in the UK

In terms of their freedom to enter the UK and work, there are several broad categories of overseas nationals:

- Those who are free to enter, remain and work in the UK with minimal restriction on their length of stay or ability to enter or change employment. These include nationals of the 'old' European Economic Area (EEA) countries, Swiss nationals and nationals of other countries who have been granted indefinite leave to remain. The 'old' EEA countries other than the UK are:

Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Iceland, Ireland, Italy, Liechtenstein, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Spain, and Sweden.

- Those with greater, but still limited, restrictions on their ability to enter and work in the UK. These include the nationals of the Accession 8 or 'A8' countries who joined the EU in May 2004 (Czech Republic, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Slovakia and Slovenia) who need to register under the Accession Worker Registration Scheme, Commonwealth nationals with UK ancestry and dependants of British citizens and EEA nationals. (Cyprus and Malta also joined the EU on the same date but their nationals are not included in the Worker Registration Scheme).
- Those from Bulgaria or Romania (these countries joined the EU on 1 January 2007), often referred to as 'A2' nationals, who still need permits or their equivalent to take employment in the UK.
- Those admitted to the UK with temporary permission as students or participants in short-term employment including exchange schemes, or for training or work experience.
- Those admitted to work in the UK in certain sectors on a 'permit free' basis, but still requiring specific and time-limited permission.

Those requiring full employment-based permission to work in the UK.

The points-based system

Since February 2008, a points-based system has been in place to assess people wanting to come to work in the UK. The criteria are adjusted from time to time, so it is essential to check the latest information (see Useful contacts section below).

There are five tiers within the points-based system:

Tier 1 - Highly skilled

Tier 2 - Skilled

Tier 3 - Low skilled (currently suspended)

Tier 4 - Students

Tier 5 - Temporary workers (including holiday workers).

Sponsorship by an employer is essential for Tiers 2-5. Those in Tier 1 who meet the points requirement are allowed to come to the UK to seek work or to pursue self employment opportunities.

Only employers registered with and licensed by the Home Office are permitted to issue a Certificate of Sponsorship (CoS) to a named individual, who must then apply for permission to enter the UK. The employer must have undertaken a strict verification exercise in order to issue a Certificate of Sponsorship.
